

WEO

The voice of world endoscopy

Declining trend in the participation rate in the Netherlands

What about other screening programmes?

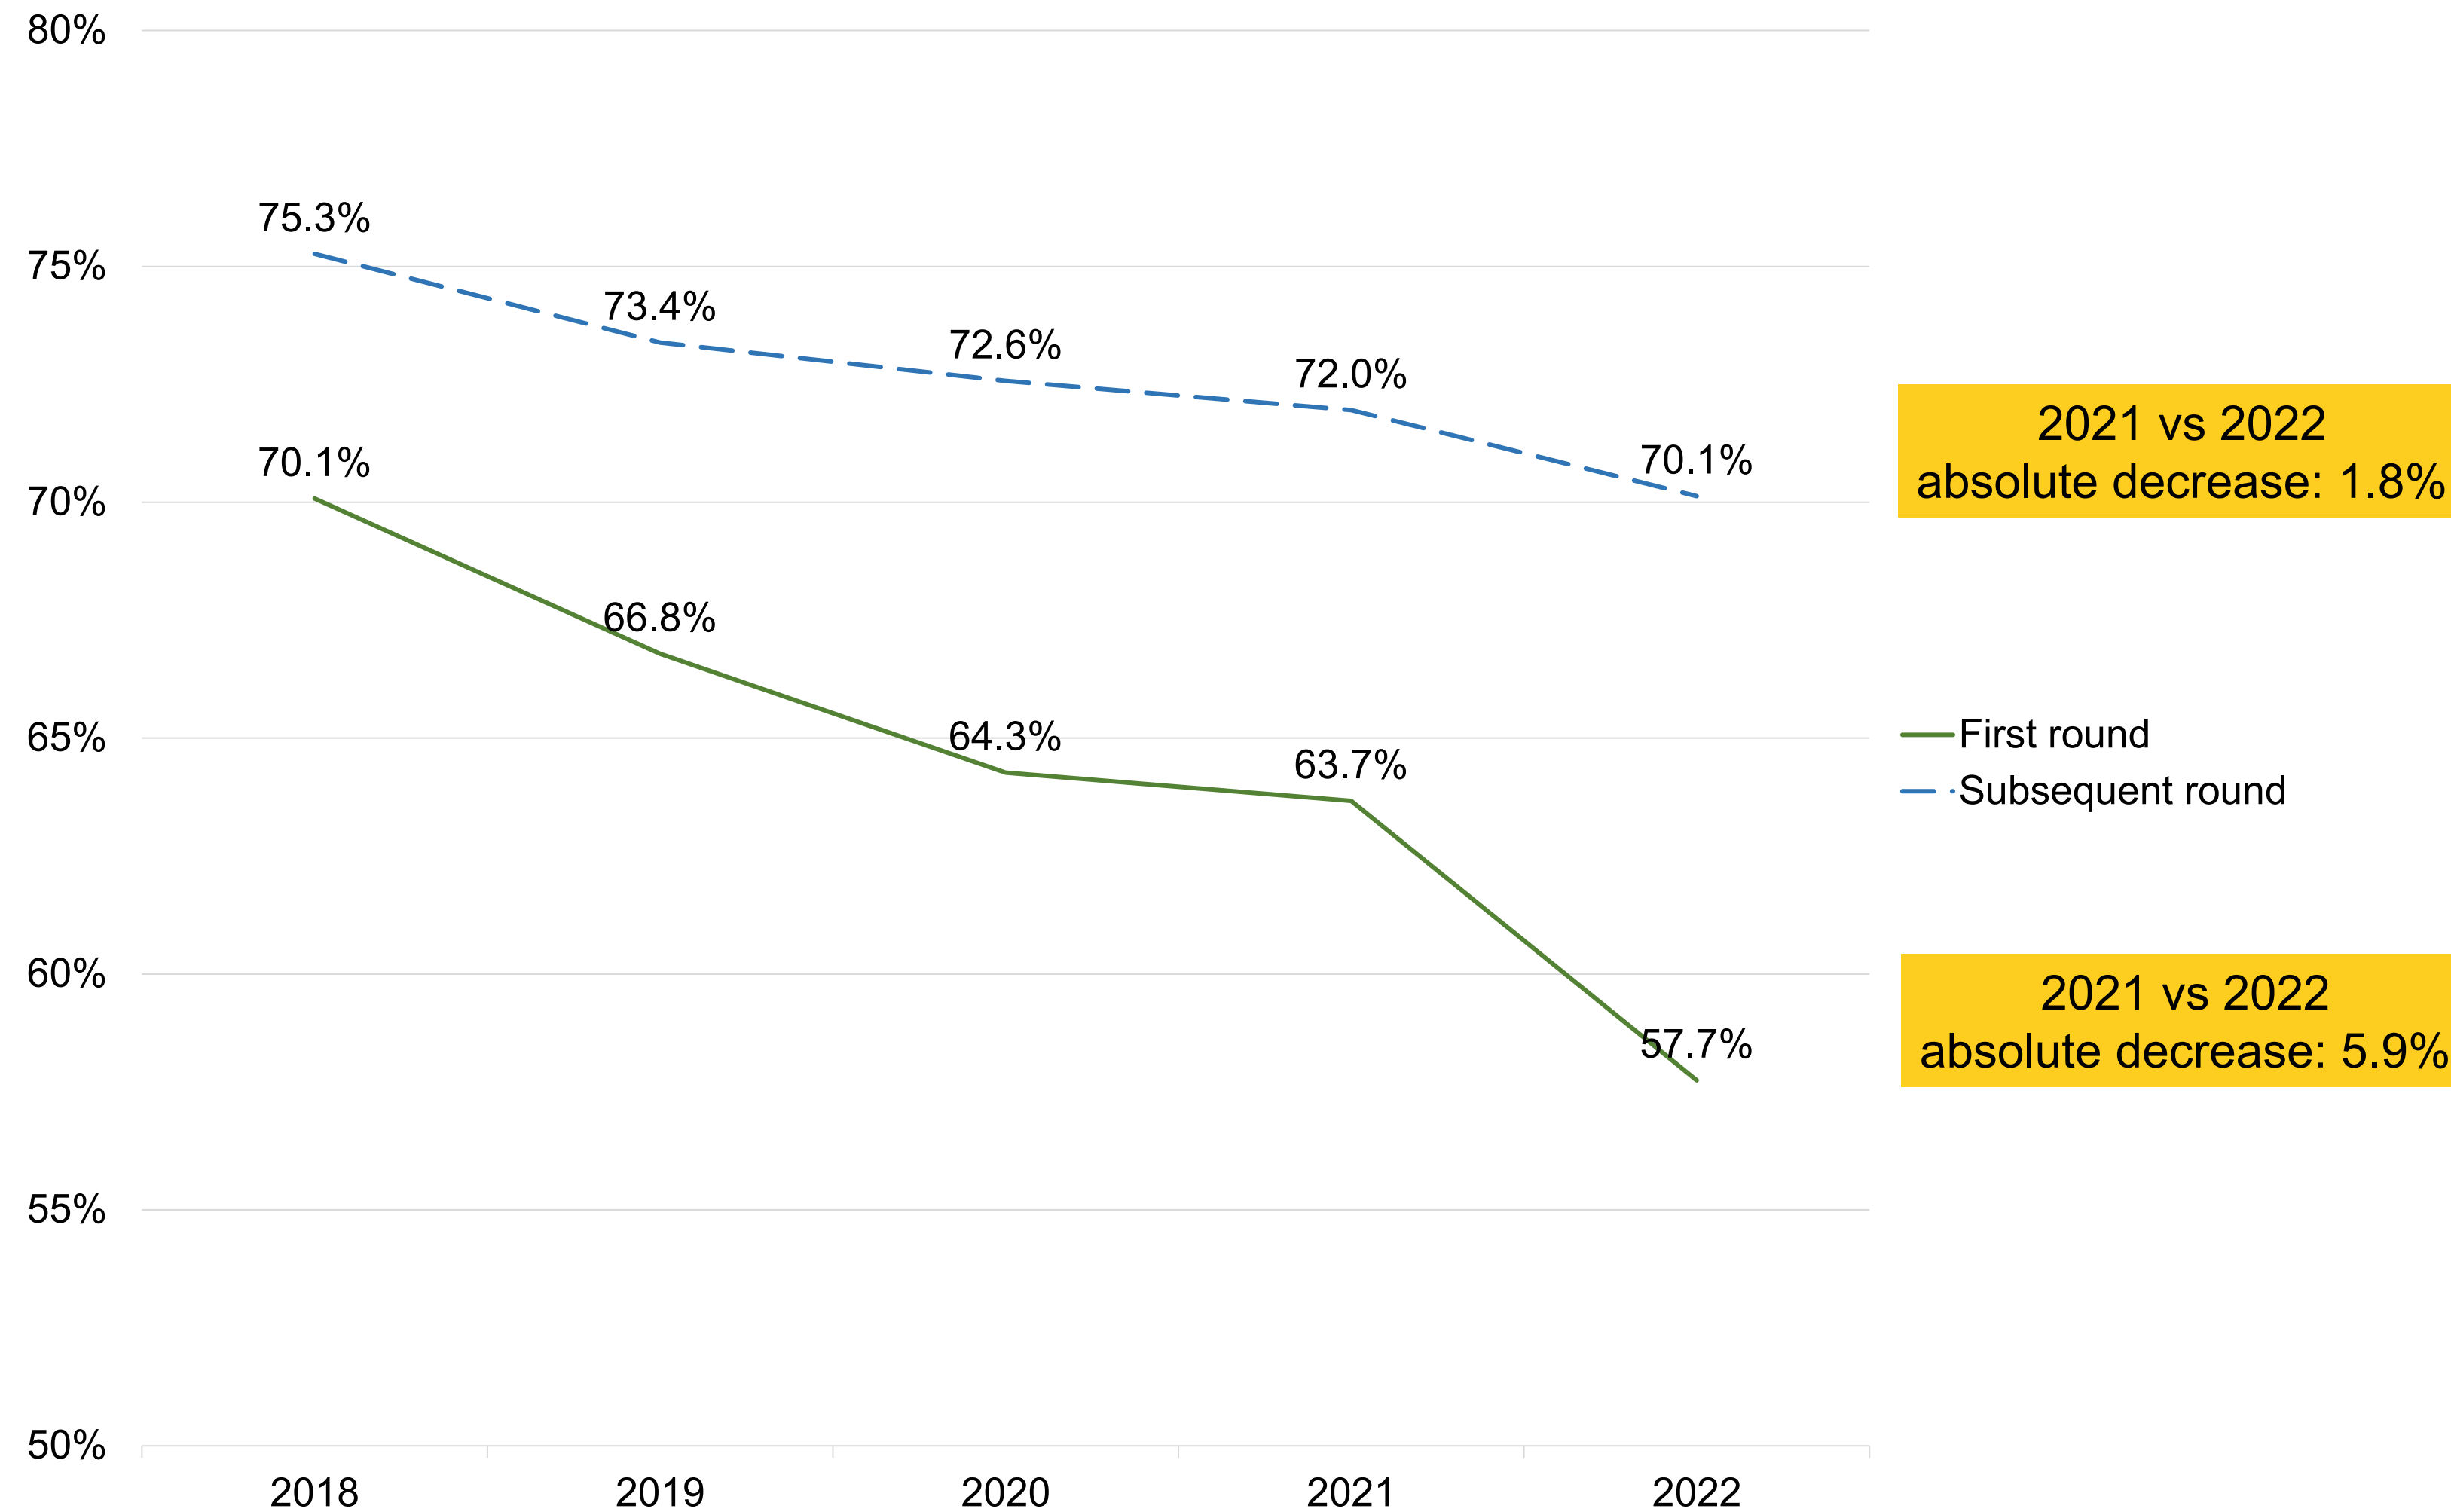

Dr. Esther Toes-Zoutendijk

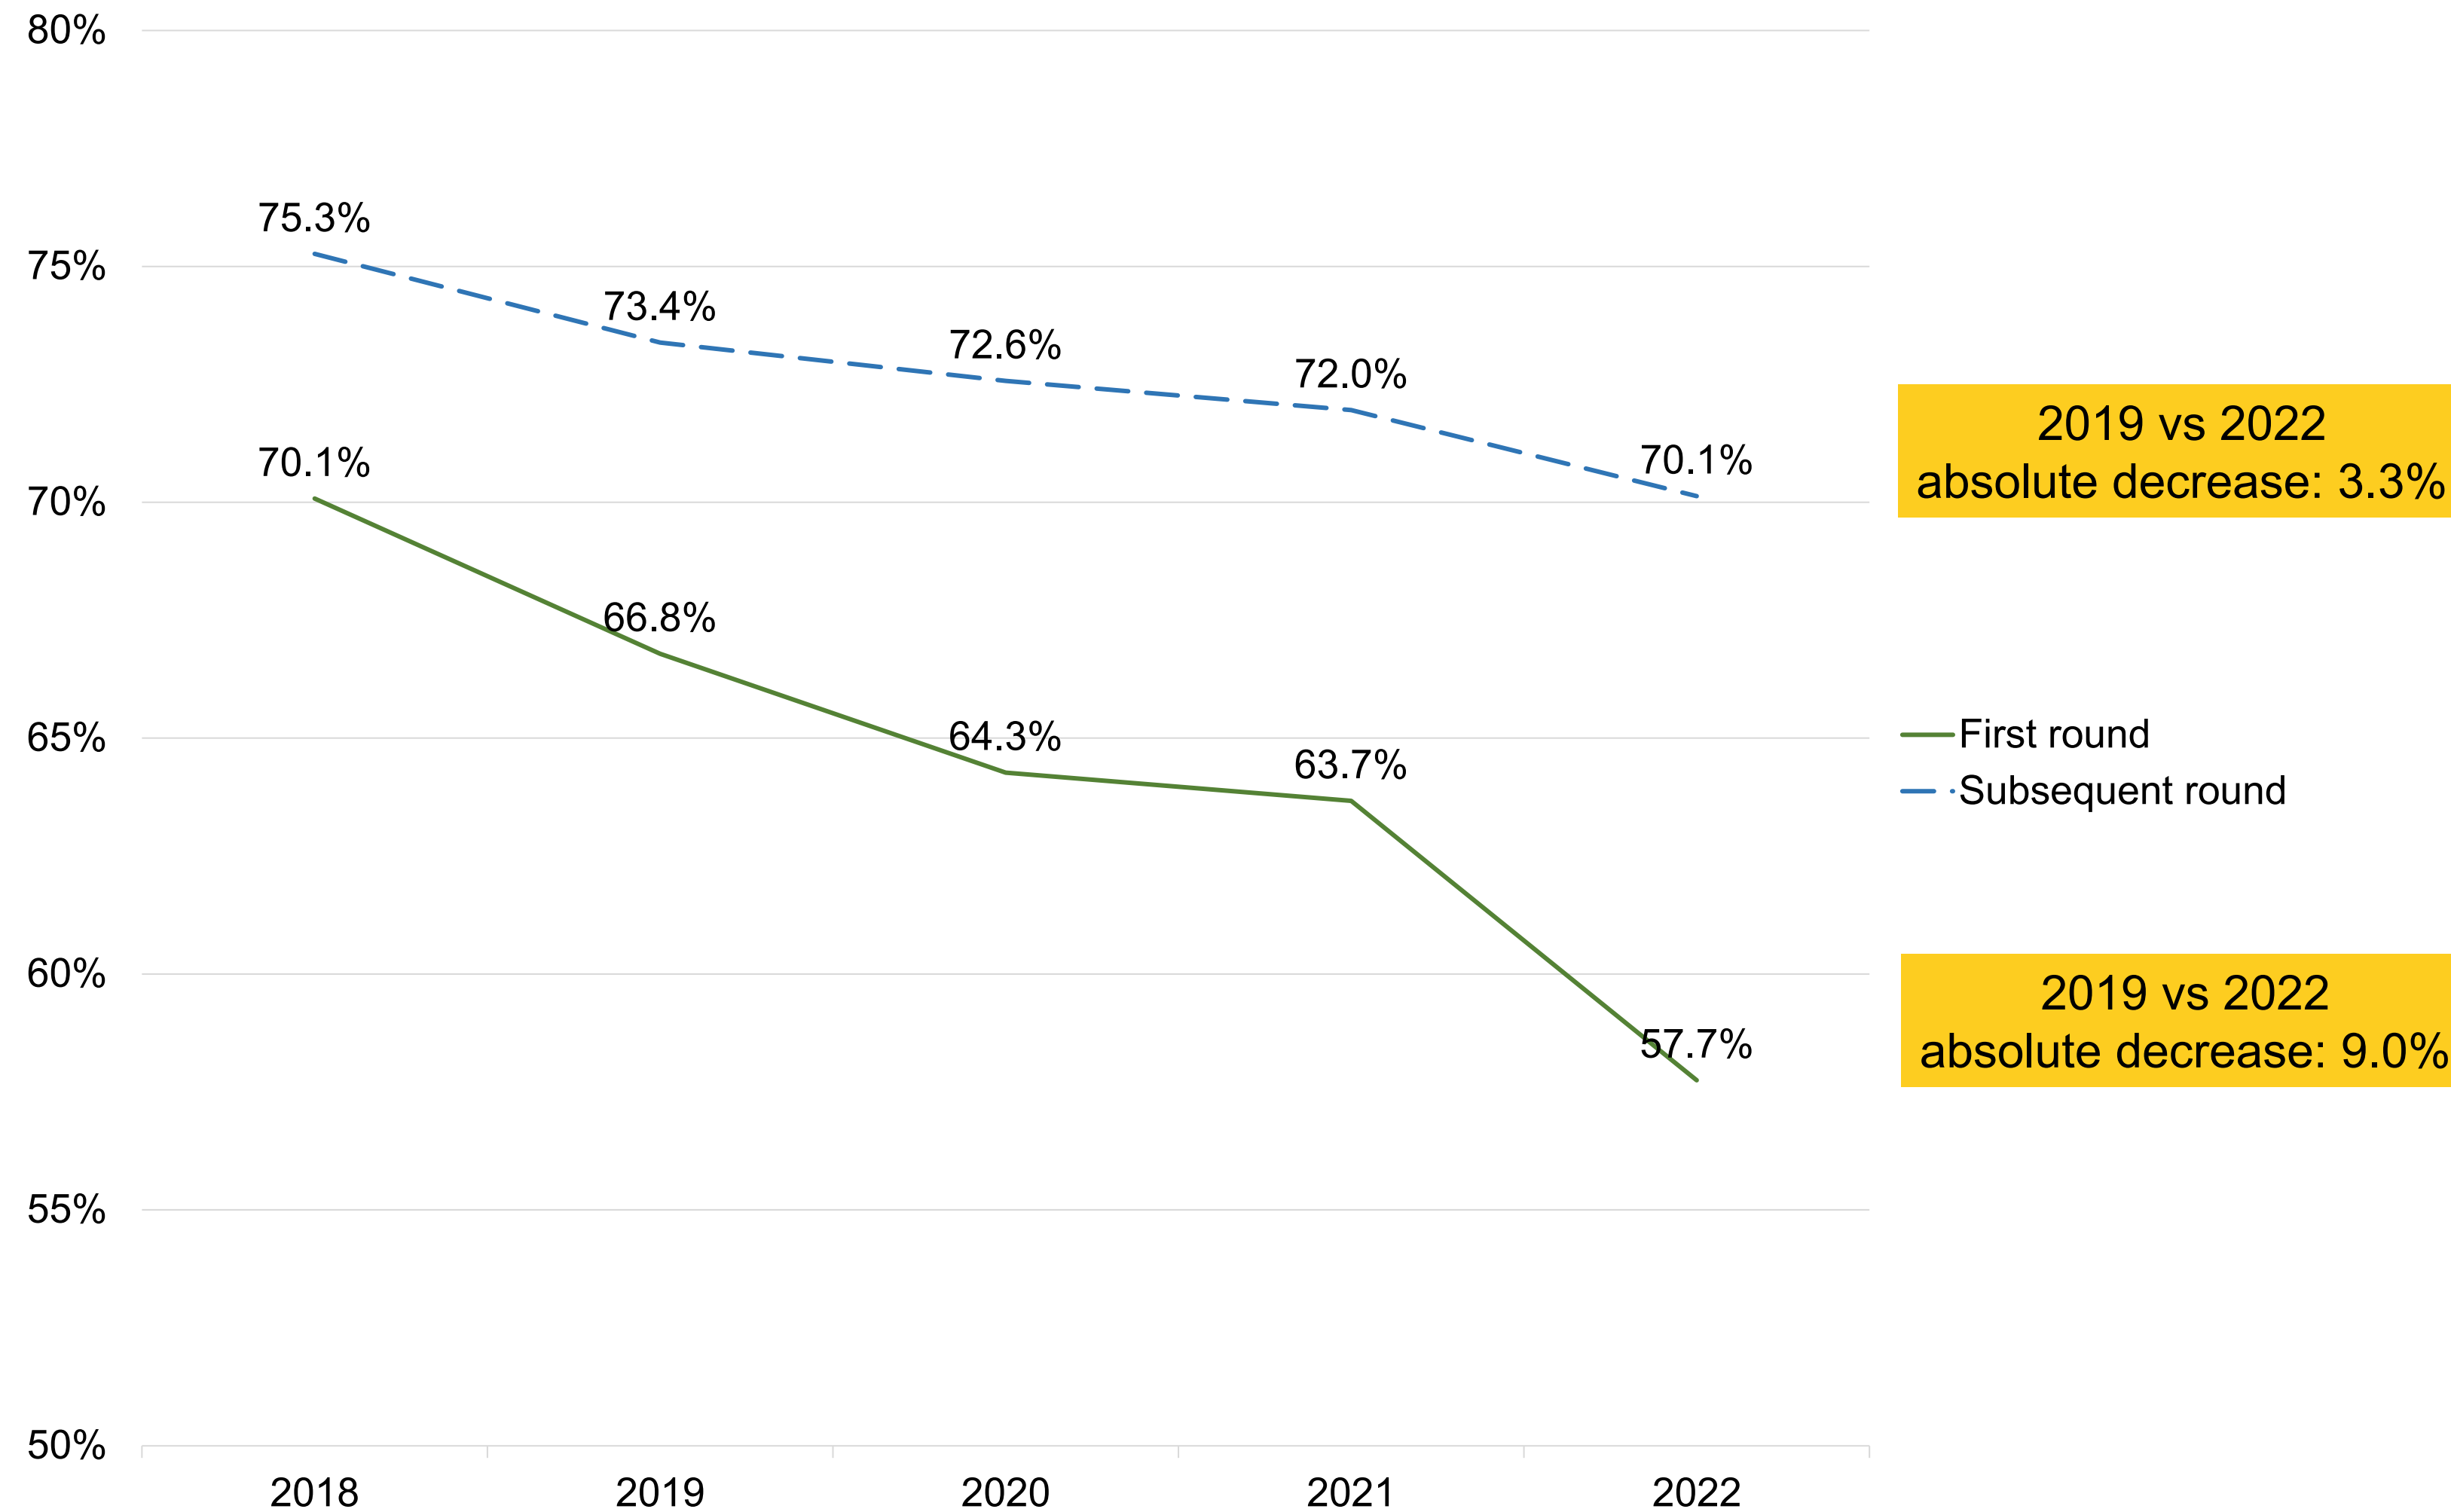

Participation rate over time

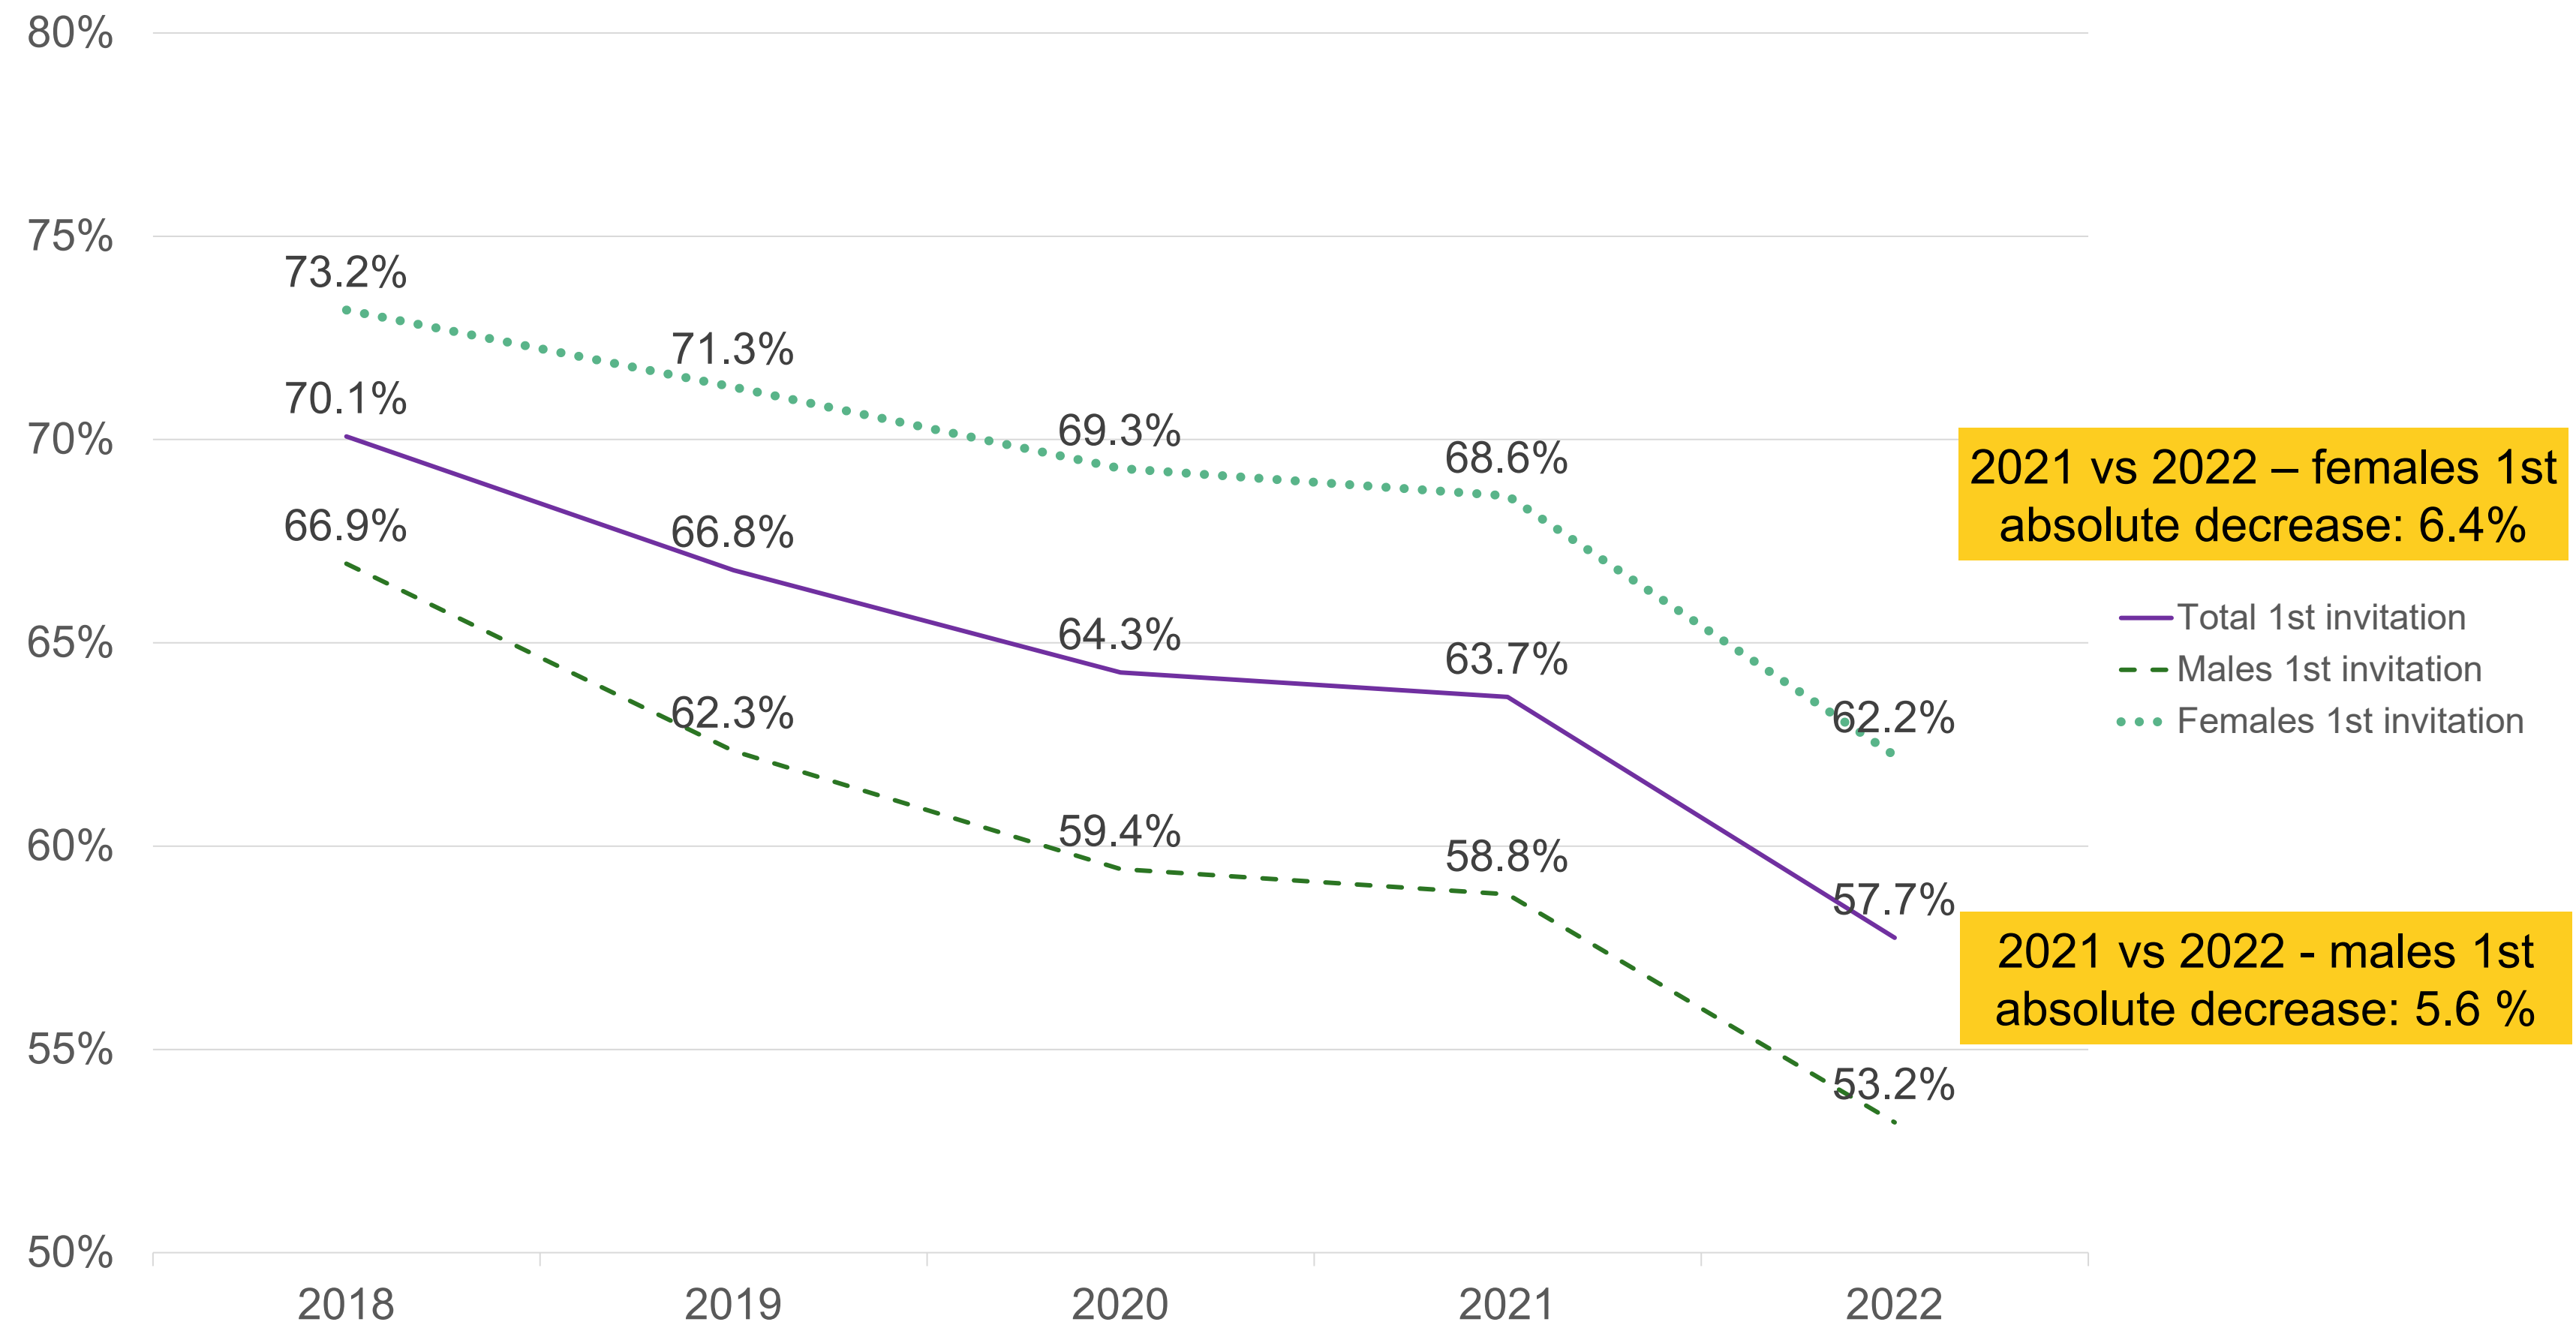

Participation 1st and subsequent invitation

Participation 1st and subsequent invitation

Participation first invitation by gender

Consistent participation in 2022

- 91.2% for men and 91.5% for women
- The problem is to get them in - not to keep them in.

What is going on?

- Part of the drop can be explained by the older age groups during the implementation (2014-2018)
- But, not the large drop in 55-year-olds from 2019 onwards

What is going on?

- Part of the drop can be explained by the older age groups during the implementation (2014-2018)
- But, not the large drop in 55-year old from 2019 onwards
- Also a drop in participation rates for breast and cervical cancer screening in the Netherlands

What is going on?

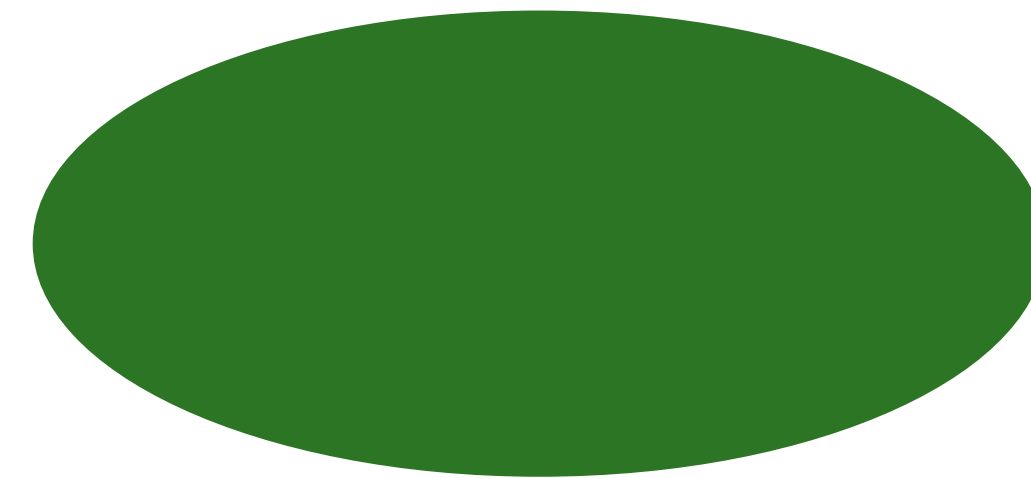

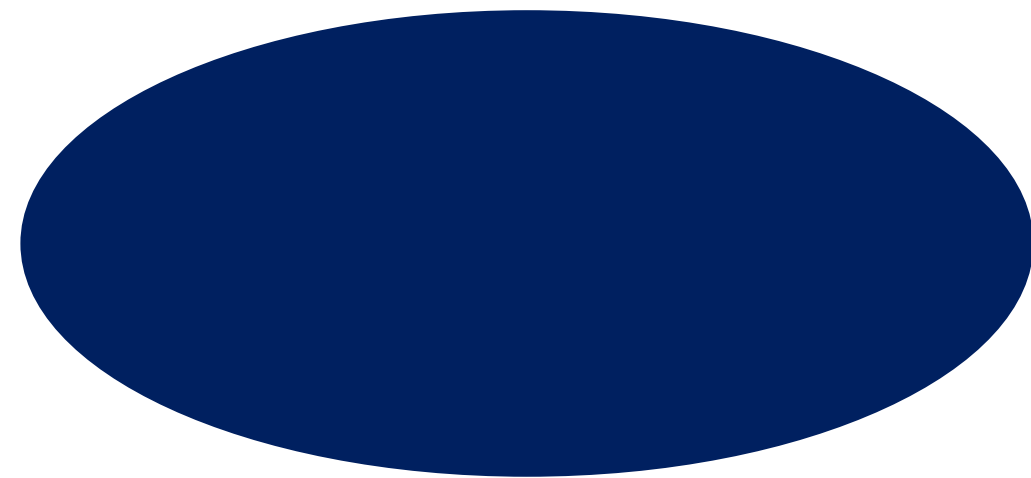

- Part of the drop can be explained by the older age groups during the implementation (2014-2018)
- But, not the large drop in 55-year old from 2019 onwards
- Also a drop in participation rates for breast and cervical cancer screening in the Netherlands
- Dutch issue or broader one?

What can we learn from each other?

Welcome to join the discussion
Just raise the cards!

A simple question to get you started

Are you in favour of colorectal cancer screening?

no

yes

How is screening offered to the population?

opportunistic organised

Is your programme fully implemented?

no

yes

Do you know the most recent participation rates in your region or country?

no

yes

Is the most recent participation rate in your region or country $>50\%$?

no

yes

Has there been any change in participation rates in recent years?

no

yes

If so, up or down?

up

down

If down, can you explain this observed declining trend?

no

yes

Would you like to continue this discussion and take part in a survey?

Contact me: e.toes-zoutendijk@erasmusmc.nl

or

Write down your name when you leave the room

WEO

World Endoscopy Organization

